A leadership tool for your production shifts

Hi [User],

I am following up briefly in case you haven't had a chance to review my previous email amid this week's commitments.

Leading industrial plants during peak demand requires decision-making on the shop floor to be just as seamless as it is in executive leadership.

That is why we have made available an executive summary with leadership principles tailored specifically to manufacturing and logistics:

Executive Summary – Leadership for High-Pressure Environments (PDF) Direct access, no forms required

It includes a diagnostic matrix to help evaluate the level of operational alignment among your plant managers and supervisors.

We hope this proves to be a useful resource for your upcoming management meetings.

Best regards,

Francy Beltran
